A touch of Wentworth in the heart of Kent

Canterbury Golf Club was designed by the legendary golf course architect Harry S Colt and opened in 1927.

Colt and his associates designed some of the most famous golf courses in the world including Wentworth, Troon, Sunningdale, Royal St Georges, Moor Park and Royal Lytham & St Annes to name just a few.

In fact several visitors to Canterbury Golf Club have commented on the many holes that appear to have been “plucked” from some of the great Colt courses and dropped into the landscape at Canterbury.

Apart from minor changes to a couple of holes, Canterbury has changed very little from Colt's original design, and over the years has matured into one of the top courses in the South East of England.

About Associate Membership

Associate Membership is a brand new category of golf club membership designed to cope with the demands of a modern lifestyle. There is a constant demand on our time in this current day and age and there are many who want the privilege of being a member of a prestigious club like Canterbury, but worry that they won't have the time to play enough to justify the cost of their membership.

At Canterbury we feel we can help you to become a member of one of the best courses in Kent, without the commitment and restraints of a traditional membership.
